As for Common Graduate School Courses, we conduct surveys in advance to find out what courses the students are planning to take. Please take time to answer the questionnaire and be sure to register for the courses. Enrolment procedures and acquisition of credits from courses in this course group will be determined by the Division of Legal Affairs.

The number of graduate students is very small compared to that of the undergraduate students, and courses are conducted in small groups; therefore, we strongly recommend students to make appointments with the instructors to inform them that you are planning to take their courses, and obtain information on how the courses are conducted before completing course registration procedures.

Please note that it is not possible to take courses in the Division of Legal Affairs (Graduate School of Law) (please refer to Graduate School of Law Regulations, Attachment 2).

(2) Exceptions

If you have credits obtained from another graduate school of this University, or a graduate school of another university (including credits earned as a non-degree student) before enrolling in this Program, you can apply to transfer up to 15 of those credits to this Program. For credit transfer please apply via the Graduate School Support Section after your orientation. The same application process is required to transfer credits obtained in advance from the courses of this Program while being enrolled as an undergraduate student.

5 Shortening or Extending your Period of Studies

The standard period of study for the Master’s Program is two years, so in principle, at least two years are required to complete the Program. However, for those, who are eligible for the short-term (one year) enrollment system, one year of enrollment will be sufficient. There is also a system that allows students with excellent achievements to shorten their enrollment period to one year upon application; on the contrary, those who have difficulties in completing their studies within the standard period due to employment, housework, child-care, family nursing or those with special mental or physical conditions, can extend their period of enrollment upon application. If you wish to submit application for one of the above, please contact the Graduate School Support Section promptly.

2 Preparation, Submission and Examination of Master’s Thesis or Research Paper

1 The importance of Master’s Thesis

A Master’s thesis or a research paper (hereinafter referred to as “Master’s thesis”) is a culmination of your research results and is essential for obtaining the Master’s degree. Therefore, the examination and final examination will be conducted strictly in accordance with the “Agreement on preparation, submission and examination of Master’s thesis or research paper in the Division of Law and Politics”. Please read the above agreement carefully before starting your research and make sure nothing is missed.

2 Taking an English Test and Obtaining Test Results

Please note that one of the main requirements for submission of Master’s thesis is to take one of the English tests stated below by the date of submission of the thesis and submit a copy of the test results to the Graduate School Support Section.

TOEIC (Listening & Reading Test), TOEIC (Listening & Reading IP Test), TOEFL-iBT (including (Special) Home Edition), TOEFL-ITP or IELTS

It is necessary to acquire a minimum score of 600 for the TOEIC Listening & Reading Test (for tests other than TOEIC, the score conversion details will be announced later). If you fail to obtain this score you will be required to ① Prepare a summary report in English and distribute it to the study group at least once, and ② Prepare a short research paper of 1200-2000 words, which is required to submit when writing your thesis or research paper in Japanese.

However, if you meet one of the following criteria, you may be eligible to receive exemption from taking the English test. If you wish to apply for exemption, please submit “English Language Test Exemption Application” to the Graduate School Support Section.
